Game on for fantasy sports platforms

The suspension of the IPL put them on a sticky wicket; its resumption has them feverishly working to keep users engaged and improve their offerings

Bengaluru, 27 May

arage-born online gaming startup PlayerzPot, which calls itself India ka naya maidan, (India's new playing field) saw user registrations grow three times per day in April and revenue by 2x over March. But with the suspension of Indian Premier League (IPL), that growth momentum slowed. The Mumbai-based startup's founder Sunil Yadav had foreseen this suspension owing to the second wave of pandemic coursing through the country. So, he had a plan B ready. In the absence of physical matches, he concentrated on keeping already acquired users engaged on the platform.

'We are focusing on the casual gaming format and are attracting users and keeping them engaged through games such as Snakes and Ladder, Ludo, Sheep Fight, Housie Quiz, General Quiz to name a few board games," says Yadav, whose six-year-old start-up had raised $3 million last year.

Still, it's tough going. IPL is one of the most lucrative and valued sports IPs in the world and most major gaming platforms associate with the league to reach their target audiences and drive engagement. According to reports, big names such as Dream Sport, whose brand Dream11 is also the IPL title sponsor, and Mobile Premier League, a Bengaluru-based esports tournament platform, and others were spending over ₹200 crore collectively on advertisements to stay top-of-the mind with viewers. This was publicity that indirectly helped drive the business of other fantasy gaming platforms. "Since the fantasy sports business model is directly linked to live sports, the suspension of the league will definitely have an impact on both top line and revenues," says Roland Landers, CEO, All India Gaming Federation. He estimates the top line would be 50 per cent down from the targeted numbers for most fantasy sports players.

Now that the 2021 edition of the IPL will be resumed in the United Arab Emirates between September 15 and October 15, recouped. Meanwhile, the challenge is to keep users engaged. They are banking on the hardcore fantasy sports gamer with more time on his or her hands owing to the pandemicinduced lockdown. The focus here is to maintain top-of-themind awareness through SMS campaigns and personal outreach programmes. "On the non-marquee matches, we have increased our contest cash pool, Capital and Tencent as investwhich would bring more users ors, became the country's first around IPL, they'll have to bring to our platform rather than gaming unicorn in 2019; MPL their best game to the table.

going on other competing platforms," says Amit Purohit, founder. Fantasy Akhada. which recently raised ₹5 crore from Prime Securities. For instance, for domestic cricket matches currently taking place in the UK and West Indies, the company has increased the guaranteed cash contest pool by 100 per cent to keep fantasy sports fans in the loop.

There is good reason for those in the fray to hang in there. A report by the Federation of Indian Fantasy Sports (FIFS) and global consultancy KPMG suggests that the Indian fantasy sports industry is expected to be worth $3.7 billion by 2024. This super-growth can be seen in the fact that the market now has some 150 fantasy gaming sites from just 10 in 2016. The FIFS-KPMG report estimates that the past decade has seen a 700 per cent increase in the number of fantasy sports operators and a whopping gaming space," said Pankaj 2,500 per cent spike in the number of fantasy sports users.

Dream Sports, which counts investors such as Kaalari which is currently valued at $945 million, is expected to join the club soon.

In March, Dream Sports, which also FanCode, an ad-free multi-sport aggregator platform, and DreamX, an allround sports tech startup consultancy or "sports accelerator", raised $400 million in a round led by American investment firms TCV, D1 Capital Partners and Falcon Edge. This was TCV's first investment in India, and it took the company's valuation to $5 billion, making it one of the country's most valued start-ups. MPL also raised $95 million just before IPL in a Series D round led by Hong Kong-based Composite Capital and New York-based Moore Strategic Ventures.

Overall, the online gaming sector in India attracted $544 million in investments during the August 2020-January 2021 period, with investments likely to double over the next 12-18 months, says a report from Maple Capital Advisors, a boutique investment banking platform. This year also saw mobile gaming company Nazara Technologies becoming the first gaming firm in India to get listed. High tax widens divergence in diesel inflation in WPI, CPI

TWESH MISHRA New Delhi, 27 May

A steady increase in diesel prices has been pushing up inflation for consumers across India at a time they are grappling with a crippling second wave of the Covid-19 pandemic. Diesel retail prices are back to more than ₹80 a litre in the national capital throughout this month and remain on an upward trajectory.

According to sector watchers, the prices will remain firm and, in the near term, will only taper if the Centre and state governments agree to trim taxes. Taxes continue to form a large chunk — comprising well over 50 per cent of the sale prices in most states — auto fuel rates

The high level of taxation is reflected in the divergence of diesel inflation in the wholesale and consumer price indices. In diesel, it has shown a deflationary trend from February 2020 to January 2021 in the Wholesale Price Index (WPI). But it has shown an inflationary trend in the Consumer Price Index (CPI) during the same period.

According to economists, this is because the WPI does not take into account the taxes that are levied on end products while the CPI does. The Centre petrol by ₹13 a litre and that on cent in the headline index, and excise on petrol stands at ₹32.98 a litre while on diesel it is ₹31.83 a litre. Some states also hiked value added tax but trimmed their share when petrol prices began to touch ₹100 a litre in certain districts. The Centre continued to maintain the excise levels. Commenting on the impact of higher diesel prices on inflation, Aditi Nayar, chief economist, ICRA, said, "Diesel has a had raised excise duty on large weight in the WPI. 3 per diesel by ₹16 in March and May as much as 38 per cent of the 2020. After these hikes, the mineral oil basket, Moreover, it has important implications in terms of the second-round impact on prices of other items, given its predominance in road freight in India." This makes it a crucial item to watch to gauge the trajectory of WPI inflation, "Given the crash in global crude oil prices last year, followed by the sequential strengthening we have seen in the recent months, fuel inflation is experiencing a double whammy,"

According to Devendra Pant, chief economist and head public finance, India Ratings, the higher diesel prices have a much more severe cascading effect. "A 10 per cent increase in diesel prices will result in 31 basis point increase in wholesale inflation directly. In April 2021, diesel inflation was 33.82 per cent and this has contributed 105 basis points to the April 2021 wholesale inflation."

According to Pant, the second-round impact is through an increase in transportation cost of goods. Diesel in CPI is part of two sub-groups — "fuel and light", and "transport and communication" with combined weight of 0.15043 per cent. A 10 per cent increase in retail price of diesel will result in a 2 basis point increase in retail inflation. However, the second-round impact due to higher transportation cost will have a larger impact on retail inflation, he added.

The higher diesel prices have already started hurting margins of transporters, according to S P Singh, Senior Fellow and Coordinator at the Indian Foundation of Transport Research and Training. According to Singh, truck rentals, which are falling due to low demand, would have been 5-7 per cent lower if the diesel prices were

Since the start of this month, the price of diesel has risen by around ₹4 to ₹84.61 a litre (as of Thursday) in Delhi. Under the existing pricing structure, petrol and diesel prices can change daily and differ according to districts. Hinting at tougher times to come for consumers, N Vijayagopal, Director (Finance) at Bharat Petroleum Corporation, told Business Standard, "Either the (international) prices will soften or the government will reduce taxes. Unless one or both of these happen, we have no choice but to continue increasing the retail selling prices." India's domestic petrol and diesel prices are linked to global benchmarks of similar commodities. A spike in international product rates pushes up prices in India.
